

Canada's Largest Urban Adventure Race Comes to Vancouver!

You can run... but can you Chase?

Toronto, ON. (June 22, 2015) - Part obstacle race, part scavenger hunt. The GoodLife Fitness City Chase raises funds for GoodLife Kids Foundation, which supports kids' charities providing ongoing physical activity opportunities for children ages 4 - 14.

"We value the opportunity to be the recipient of fundraising dollars gathered by GoodLife Fitness City Chase participants this year," says Lisa Burrows, Executive Director of GoodLife Kids Foundation. "Funds raised will support local ongoing physical activity programs for children with autism. This partnership helps GoodLife Kids Foundation reach our ultimate goal of all Canadian kids being physically active."

To conquer this Amazing Race-style adventure, chasers will decipher clues to find ChasePoints hidden throughout the city. They must run, walk or use public transit as they race to the ChasePoints where they will complete challenges that test both mind and body. The goal is to complete 10 ChasePoints before racing on to the finish line! The three top teams then go on to the National Championships where they compete against winning teams from other Canadian cities for big prizes and all of the glory.
